Thanks Cody. Do you have a list of service summaries? I do not see what UNB represents.

Not sure where that would be if we have one. It's a small list though.

HAZ = hazardous

UNB = unboxed

COD = cash on delivery

AOD = acknowledge on delivery

OVR = oversized

Is the QR code necessary, if so let me know what it should reference. Is the vertical barcode the same as the horizontal one?

The vertical and horizontal barcodes are the same, yes. The Aztec code I do not believe is required YET, but it should contain the ship to zip code followed by the entire "SP" tracking number with no space. EX: 56301SP001001033182200000

I assume for a tracking number we can use our own ID for the package ID as long as it is unique?

Yes, that is fine.

That would be the file called "delivery label".

And when it comes to questions about electronic manifest questions you will have to reach out to Susan as she handles the setup of that.

Her email is: sfank@speedeedelivery.com

The rest of the questions you can keep directing at me, however.

Thanks Cody!

Do you have a shipping label example on format? Or as long as it has the 128 barcode on it with standard address information we are okay to go?

Can you provide the FTP information we would need for uploading the SDS_CSV file? Is there a preferred time to send the manifest to SpeeDee?

Hi Sabrina,

In the past I've talked to Ron Geiser but it has been a while. We are looking at generating shipping labels and providing a manifest for Blue Nest Beef shipments within our software.

Hello Sabrina,

Todd Churchill from Blue Nest Beef forwarded your information to me. We're looking to connect with someone on the technical side to help Chris Smith (from CGSmith and Shipwise) get the SpeeDee shipments automated.

Can you provide us with a warm introduction to someone on the technical team so we're not just dealing with the support site? Time is of the essence, and we're trying to launch a new website for Blue Nest Beef, and to set up a way to efficiently move the orders into the SpeeDee Delivery system, and pull the tracking information back into the eCommerce platform.

We would truly appreciate your help!

Let us know,

Thanks!
